VII. Part of a Letter, Dated June the 9th, 1697. from Herefordſhire, giving a Relation of the Effects of a great Hail-ſtorm there, June 1697.

THIS is to give you an Account of an Extraordinary Hail, which happened on Sunday laſt in this Country. A little of it fell in ſeveral places, but in the Pariſh of Weſthide, not far from Hereford, ſo great a quantity fell, as deſtroyed all the Poultrey, Garden Stuff, Corn, Graſs, and moſt of the Fruit Trees in the Pariſh, but kill'd no Men nor Cattle, but hurt ſeveral, and broke moſt of the Windows: Many of the Stones were meaſured above Nine Inches in Compaſs.

VIII. A Note concerning an Extraordinary Hail in Monmouthſhire, Extracted out of a Letter ſent from Mr. Edward Lhwyd to Dr. Tancred Robinſon, Fell. of Coll. of Phyſ. & R. S. Dat. Uſk in Monmouthſhire, June 15. 1697.

WE had at Pont y Pool in Monmouthſhire, on the 6th of June laſt, an Extraordinary Shower of Hail, which extended about a Mile, and laſted
